OIR CITY QUOTA.

We do not believe that there is "rank inment of quotas, for we remember that our City was virtually screened from the heavy draft of last Summer that bore so heavily on the rural districts. That allotment to our City and Brooklyn of nearly all the Naval recruits who shipped at the Navy-Yard during the preceding years of the war was most unfair; those men came from every quarter, and did not nearly all belong to our State, much less to our City. We presume the latest distribution of quotas is substantially just.

ts fairness finds it a sore tax when it has had that quota reduced and then increased, or increased without baying been reduced. Now Copperhow to vindicate and justify one quota, when, presto! it is changed in a flash into another. The injury done to the National cause by this hocus-pocus is equal to the subtraction of a utilization of Gen. Fry's genius, not involving arithmetical achievements, wherein he could not fail to be more useful, even if less conspicuous,

THE PAPER DUTY.

The Evening Post says: "The prediction is again repeated, that if the pro-hibitory duty on imported paper be taken off the paper-makers will be ruined."

-Who says this? Where is it said? How much is this "probibitory duty ?" Why not tell your readers that it is just twenty per centone-fifth of the value ! Do you not pay an unwilling tribute to our paper-makers by calling this duty "prohibitory ?"

We have no doubt that The Post believes in its Free Trade theory, as it has no doubt of our faith in Protection: but it does seem impossible to make a Free Trader treat fairly the positions of an opponent. Our view is, that the true way the building and running of more Paper-Mills. It would not be difficult to make an ignoramus believe that it was the want of foreign competition in newspapers-the inability, that is, of a British or French newspaper to replace an American newspaper in our country as perfectly as a yard of foreign calico supplants one of American production—that has epubled and incited The Post and THE TRIBUSE to advance their prices; but it would not be true.
